

MORE FARE RATHER THAN COLONIAL ABANDONMENT

This, Mayor Canfield thinks, is Attitude of Citizens and Chairman Hill Apparently Accepts It as Best Way Out of Trouble Situation. Although No Decision Has Yet Been Made and Briefs May Yet Be Filed—Hearings Ended.

Without announcing any decision, Chairman Charles E. Hill of the Public Service Commission, Second District, intimated strongly at the close of Monday's hearing on the application of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company to abandon part of its Colonial division, that an increase in fare was the solution of the problem which has been vexing the railroad company, the city officials and the general public.

The afternoon hearing opened with the city calling City Marshal Arthur Rice and Ferdinand Voigt to testify as to the manner in which they had taken the count of passengers on two sections of the Colonial division on August 24, 25 and 26. They were two of the six men who took the count under the direction of Chief of Police Wood, the result of which was published in The Freeman on Monday. In counting children, the said, they waited to see if the conductor collected fares, and did not count children where no fares were collected. Children already on the cars when they boarded them were not counted unless the conductor said that fares had been collected from them.

At the close of their testimony, former Public Service Commissioner Martin Decker, who appeared with Howard Chipp for the railroad company, moved to strike out their testimony because it was apparent, he said, that some of the passengers on the cars had been counted twice. Chairman Hill said the only thing of importance in his opinion was the number of persons who boarded and left the Colonial cars within the two sections where the count was taken.

Assistant City Engineer Lorraine E. Wood testified in regard to a map he had prepared, which had been used by Chief Wood at the morning session, and also as to grades of streets leading to the streets through which parts of the Colonial line passed. He also submitted a plan providing for a track from Broadway through Schenck street to the beach, and another providing a loop to the lower part of the city, but said he had not prepared the map as a railroad engineer, with which branch of engineering he was not familiar. So far as making a loop from Fair, Main and Wall streets was concerned, he said he regarded it as impracticable because Main and Fair streets were only thirty feet wide from curb to curb, there was heavy traffic at Fair and Main streets, and Main street at that point was still further narrowed by reason of a large tree which extended beyond the curb line which would make that corner extremely dangerous for a railroad track to pass from one street into the other.

A statement of gross receipts of the Colonial line from 1900 to date, which had been promised by the railroad officials at the previous hearing, was introduced in evidence and with this testimony the city closed its case in opposition to the railroad company's application for abandonment.

Minor Travel in August.

Superintendent G. Burton Tebow, of the railroad company, was recalled and in answer to questions by Mr. Decker said that during the week when the police count had been taken there was a Mardi Gras at Kingston Point Park and that on Thursday, August 26, one of the three days when the police count was made, there was a children's carnival at Fort York Park. Fifteen extra cars being put in operation that day. On Tuesday and Wednesday, the other two days the count was taken by the police, Kingston City cars had been run through to Kingston Point, but not on Thursday. On Friday and Saturday of that week they had been run through again to Kingston Point. The count, he said, did not show the average day's travel. The count which had been made by the railroad the previous week, he said, and which had been introduced in evidence, had been reduced to the average daily travel month of the year.

If the company was allowed to abandon the parts of its line for which application had been made, he said, the Colonial line would still be running from Washington avenue at Marion street to Kingston Point. Under the company's plan, sections would be installed which would prevent the running of cars under five minute headway instead of ten minute headway, as at present.

The number of transfers issued during the year ending August 31, 1920, he said, was about $1,000, and the Kingston City line had issued 6,811 more transfers than the Colonial line. There were five transfer points, but the principal ones were at the Washington ferry, the vicinity of the West shore station and at Wall and North Front streets. During the summer season, the Kingston City division ran through to Kingston Point from the Washington ferry on Saturdays and Sundays, and from 7 o'clock in the morning on other days except Mondays. "On every track of the line on the various sections would require issue of tickets similar to railroad tickets or else conductors would have to keep a list of names on the cars with them. Not counting the months of June, July, August and September as "summer months," and the balance of the year as "winter months," the Kingston

SIXTH BOSTON BANK CLOSES

Fidelity Trust Company, One to Declare Moratorium. Taken Over by Bank Commissioner—Long Loans Rather Than Insolvent Cause—McCall Cries "Fist."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Boston, Sept. 28.—Bank Commissioner Allen today closed and took possession of the Fidelity Trust Company. This is the sixth bank closed since the Charles Ponzi "get rich quick" bubble burst.

Steady withdrawal of depositors and long and doubtful loans were given as the reasons for closing the Fidelity. This was the same reason given for the closing of the Hanover Trust Company, the Prudential Trust Company, the Commercial Trust Company and two rival banks in the north end.

The Fidelity Trust was one of three banks which yesterday were forced to declare moratorium on savings accounts for a period of 90 days. Inability to realize quickly on loans rather than a question of solvency is declared to have brought about the closing of the Fidelity Trust.

A double police guard was thrown about Boston banks today as a precaution. Bank Commissioner Allen said there was no cause for alarm, that the banking situation was rapidly improving.

A statement charging that there is an "engineer" behind the Boston bank situation, issued by former Governor Samuel W. McCall, who was ordered dismissed from the Old South Trust Company by the bank commissioner on the grounds of economy, attracted wide attention today.

"What a moment," said McCall, "this is for a dastard who wishes to deal a double blow. In this time of great public excitement and financial unrest such a blow might spread further havoc among the smaller banks and help concentrate the control of the money of Boston in the hands of a few men, so that no one could do business without their consent and more and more of the men in high office would become their puppets; and at the same time it would serve the purpose of a crew as corrupt in business as it is in politics and expose to the blast of unpopularity one whom it was their purpose to destroy."

"But it is a blow that only the lowest breed of hired assassins would care to strike. The people know its origin and I will leave it to them to judge its justice."

STUDEBAKER, TOO

Announces Price Reductions of From $125 to $200.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The Studebaker Corporation of South Bend, Ind., one of the largest manufacturers in the country, yesterday announced reductions on its cars ranging from $125 to $200. These reductions came simultaneously with a meeting of automobile manufacturers in Detroit to consider the situation.

A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, said last night: "Our plants have operated at capacity all year, and we have unfulfilled orders for more than 6,000 cars. Nevertheless, we believe it is highly desirable that lowering of prices be considered, and we are participating at this time our ability to purchase materials at lower figures during the coming years, to improve labor efficiency, and to increase our present volume of business, all with the effect of lowering the production cost of automobiles."

"Listings wage rates will be maintained at all plants, which at present are employing 15,000 persons. Our sales are running at the rate of $100,000,000 a year."

RAVARIANS MILITANT.

Home Guard, Formidable Force, Refuses to Disarm.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—Forty thousand completely equipped home guard troops in Bavaria are defying the demobilization order and have renewed their oath of allegiance to the "kingdom of Bavaria and the German empire," said a Munich dispatch to the Local Anzeiger today. The troops paraded at Munich on Sunday and the streets of the city were gay with flags. The concentration of more than two divisions in Bavaria, recruited to move this war strength, is arousing fears among the Socialists that there may be a repetition of the Van Pappe spring of last March.

BUSINESSLIKE BEGINNING OF C. OF C. CANVASS

Chamber of Commerce campaign workers who held their final preparatory meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, opened their session promptly on time and closed it on time—a method of procedure that is as praiseworthy as it is, unfortunately, rare. Precisely at 6:30 they were called to the dining room and precisely at 8 the meeting closed. Secretary Hudson announced that this procedure would be followed during the week and that if anyone wanted to speak after 8 o'clock it would be perfectly in order for anyone or everyone to leave the room at that time. President Charles R. O'Connor presided.

The principal address was by Secretary Hudson, who emphasized the fact that solicitors were selling memberships in an organization that had made good, an organization such as every city has and that depends for its success on general public support. The Chamber of Commerce is the agency through which the people work for the upbuilding of the city and he who is against the Chamber of Commerce is against Kingston. A community may either go ahead or fall behind. Foundations have been laid, the value of the Chamber of Commerce has been proven and this year more work must be done or we will be going back. In Poughkeepsie the cost of membership is $50. In Kingston it is $25, with the idea that it will be within the reach of more persons and that those who can pay $40 or more can take out two or more memberships, according to their ability and the amount of benefit derived.

Schwartz C. Schultz, chairman of the canvassing committee, urged the solicitors to go out and sell memberships as a business proposition, to persevere in the selling campaign the same as they would in selling any other goods. The Chamber of Commerce is a business proposition. We cannot make Kingston grow without its work and we cannot do more business unless the city grows. It is up to us to do this and it can be done.

M. S. Safford, Y. M. C. A. secretary, spoke of the advantages of Kingston and the encouraging growth of Chamber of Commerce membership from 147 to 600 last year and urged that the record made during the past year should be maintained during the year ending September 30.

Final instructions were given the workers, and the meeting closed. The workers started out this morning.

TRIM NOW A MASS OF RUINS

Soldiers and Police Wipe Out Sinn Féin Community—Two Wounded—Is Capital of County Meath on Boyne River.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Trim, Ireland, Sept. 28.—A mass of smoldering ruins marks the site of this town today, following an attack by "black and tan" policemen and soldiers during which two persons were wounded and all of the business houses and the homes of prominent Sinn Féiners were destroyed by fire. Eight automobiles containing 200 soldiers descended upon the town and completed the wreckage which had been commenced by policemen.

The inhabitants fled into the country in panic. The soldiers opened fire as soon as they arrived. Two youths, Kelly and Griffin by name, were dangerously wounded. Later three lorries drove up, containing policemen. It is charged that these policemen systematically sacked the town. They commandeered all the gasoline and proceeded from street to street burning houses. At the height of the conflagration the flames could be seen for ten miles.

Policemen were reported to have gone from house to house warning the inmates that they would be given five minutes to leave their homes. It is alleged that a seventy year old man was taken from his house and stood against a stone wall. Whether or not the policemen really intended to execute him is not known. The neighbors alarmed for the old man's safety, pleaded for him and he was finally released.

Trim is a town of Ireland, capital of the county of Meath, on the Boyne River, 25 miles northwest of Dublin. It contains the ruins of Trim Castle, dating from early Norman times, and a steeple of an old church stands on the site of an ancient abbey. Population about 1,500.

RESERVOIR DIST. IS NOW REMOTE

Repairs on Kingston Bridge and Small Bridge Near Old Hurley Make Long Detours Necessary.

Construction of a new concrete bridge over the little stream known as "Englishman's Creek," between the Warren and Brink farms near Old Hurley, at the same time that new flooring is being placed on the Kingston bridge over the Esopus creek at the end of Washington avenue, makes travel between Kingston city and the Ashokan boulevard difficult and automobilists are advised either to go by way of Marlborough or Stone Ridge.

The bridge over "Englishman's Creek" was condemned recently by the town board of the town of Hurley, which on Saturday awarded the contract for a new concrete bridge to T. D. Houghtaling of Hurley for $580. Mr. Houghtaling began work on the new bridge on Monday.

Meanwhile, preparations had been made by the street superintendent of this city and the town superintendent of highways of the town of Ulster to lay new flooring on the Kingston bridge at the end of Washington avenue, and notice was given on Monday advising all traffic to detour by way of Old Hurley and the Hurley mountain road. This plan would have been feasible if work had not been begun on the little bridge near Old Hurley.

The Phoenix bus, which carries many people daily between Kingston and various places along the Ashokan boulevard, solved the problem today by bringing passengers around the Hurley mountain road as far as the little bridge over "Englishman's Creek," which foot passengers were able to cross, when they were brought to Kingston by another bus running only between Kingston and Hurley. It is expected that the work on both bridges will be completed within a few days.

To reach the Ashokan boulevard, motorists can detour either by way of Marlborough or Stone Ridge. The Marlborough route offers two roads, either of which runs to the former place, the continuation of which comes out at Stone Church, or by way of Cantine's bridge.

Detours also can be made either by way of the Saugerties road through Saugerties and Zena, or by way of Saugerties and Woodstock.

GAS COMPANY FILES PETITION WITH ALDERMEN SEEKING HIGHER RATE

Asks Common Council to Grant Approval of Company Laying Facts Before Public Service Commission—Matter Comes Up Tuesday, Oct. 5, at Monthly Session.

The Kingston Gas and Electric Company has filed a petition with the common council asking it to place the stamp of approval on a petition made to the public service commission asking the commission to fix a fair rate for gas in Kingston. The petition states that the approval of any specific rate is not asked, but an approval of the principle that only after an examination of all the facts by the commission, that a rate be established consistent with the cost of the service.

The gas company claims in its petition that its gas department is losing money at the rate of $50,000 a year. The petition will be taken up at the regular monthly meeting of the aldermen Tuesday evening, October 5. About two years ago the gas company asked the permission of the common council to go before the public service commission, asking an increase in the gas rates here, which was denied by the aldermen. The petition in full reads as follows:

Referring to the rate for gas now in effect in this city, which rate has not been increased for approximately ten years, we have called your attention from time to time to the increasing costs of everything entering into the manufacture and distribution of gas, and about two years ago made formal application to your honorable body asking for your approval of such steps on our part as would lead to an adjustment of rates for gas commensurate with costs.

After about three months of negotiation and many conferences and meetings concerning a modification of the incidental clause in the city's contract for street lighting, under which the company's rates for all its customers were reported to be limited, the council declined to approve such action on our part.

Since that time the company has been struggling to render service and meet expenses under the old rate in the hope that after the war costs of material and labor would be reduced, and that further action would not be necessary. Exactly the reverse has been our experience, however, until now the costs of everything that enter into our product have so far increased that we are obliged to seek immediate relief if the company is to continue in operation.

You will appreciate the seriousness of our position when we state that the revenue does not equal operating costs and that the company at the present time is suffering. In its gas department, a loss at the rate of approximately $50,000 per year without consideration of interest on investment.

In these circumstances, realizing the probable necessity of demonstrating the company's position by adequate proofs and testimony and also having in mind the function of the public service commission in this regard, we are petitioning them to fix a fair rate for gas in the city of Kingston. We trust that your honorable body will see fit to urge the approval of a proper rate, realizing as you doubtless will, that it is in the interest of the public that the company be enabled to earn sufficient return to give good and adequate service.

We do not ask your approval of any specific rate, but an approval of the principle that only after an examination of all the facts by the proper rate making authorities, that a rate be established consistent with the cost of the service.

Respectfully submitted,

KINGSTON GAS & ELECTRIC CO.,

By T. R. Best, President.

"Senate Oligarchy" Responsible for Wages Fall and Big Business Is Planning to Go to Congress—
Six Speeches Today.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
En Route with Governor Cox,
New City, Ia., Sept. 23.—Governor James M. Cox, campaigning here and throughout South Dakota today, asserted that the senatorial oligarchy must assume responsibility for reductions in wages that may come in the near future. Any decrease wages or any slump in farm prices can be traced to failure of the United States to assist in re-establishing normal business conditions throughout the world, he said, adding that this in turn is attributable to blocking of ratification of the treaty by the senate.

Big business, Cox charged, is planning to take advantage of these circumstances to prevent any decrease in price consumers must pay until it is forced to do so.

Cox today is definitely on record
as opposed to elimination of article
ten from the league of nations covenant, which was characterized by President Wilson as the "heart of the treaty." In response to an inquiry, the governor reiterated his belief that this feature of the covenant was simply the application of the Monroe doctrine to the entire world.

Six speeches were on Governor
Cox's schedule today, a record equalled only once on the tour. He was to make brief talks here, at Elk Point, Vermillion, Yankton, Stock-land, Tripp, Parkton, Mitchell, Alexandria, Emery, Bridgewater, Parker

were to be made at Mitchell.

THAT THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

INCREASED GAS RATES ARE NECESSARY

The Kingston Gas Company is literally the servant of the community. Working under a tremendous handicap of increased costs and inadequate rates, it is doing its best to maintain the service. But there is a limit. If adequate service is to be continued, the rates must be adjusted to meet present day costs.

Additional revenue in the form of increased rates must be provided to meet the increased operating and distributing costs and to keep up gas service for the city. The present rate is practically the same as has been in effect for the past ten years.
It is hardly necessary to point out that it is entirely inadequate to meet present costs.

The company is being operated as efficiently and economically as is possible under the circumstances and is endeavoring to give good service. We believe that when the public understands the gravity of the situation, we will have its co-operation and support.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

THEIR PILGRIMAGE TO ANTIETAM

Five Veterans of Civil War's Blood-lost Battle of Antietam as Guests of This State at Unveiling of Its Monument There.

The following communication has been received by The Freeman with request that it be published, which tells interestingly of the unveiling and dedication of the New York state monument at Antietam, September 17, 1920:

Comrade, Alfred Tanner, E. J.
Nichols, Eli McCreery, C. M. Woolsey and Mr. Merkle were guests of the great state of New York to witness and take part in the dedication of the New York state monument at Antietam, September 17. Comrades Tanner and Nichols left Kingston on Wednesday, September 15, on the 6:05 morning West Shore train, being joined at Milton by Comrade
Woolsey, at Corvallis by Comrade
McCreery and at Jersey City by Comrade Merkle. After answering the roll call we became a bunch of light-hearted, high stepping investigators, taking in everything and looking for more. We had some time to wait at the Pennsylvania station, New York side, where we were put on a roll of living movies which seemed continuous and of great variety, so that the hour for our departure, 2:15 p. m., came quickly and soon we passed through that great tube under the river which admitted us into the open air of Jersey. En route we changed cars at Harrisburg, made quick connection and in a brief time were speeding down the picturesque Cumberland valley, but the shades of evening were gathering fast and thus shut out our view. At 10:30 in the evening we arrived at Hagerstown, Maryland, which ended our first day,
and then came a rush for quarters for the night as about 200 vets were on the train all weary and seeking rest. We being all roomed at a hotel
I being late no time was lost in preparation for sleep and soon we forgot whatever troubles we might have had.

In the morning we were told by a pleasant faced clerk of the hotel that it would be advisable for us to cough up the infinitesimal sum of three bucks for the privilege of having occupied a room overlooking a backyard strewn with boxes, crates
and other ornamental accumulations of rubbish and emitting an odor far inferior to the scent of Old Government Java. We were afraid to trust our breakfast appetite at this place lest we become financially embarrassed, and soon found a nice restaurant where the management seemed to have a conscience and our needs were well supplied. We left Hagerstown, a city of 28,000, and having been made at this place for quite up to date with many evidences of thrift, at 7:20 a. m. on a train for Antietam a run of thirty minutes.

Autos were at the depot to convey us to Sharpsburg, accommodations
our care because of its close proximity to the National cemetery, the battlefield and the location of the monument to be dedicated the following day. We were made happy by reason of securing quarters with a private family where every courtesy was extended us. The well-shaded rooms were certainly enjoyed and appreciated and the menu was varied and liberal. Fruit was placed on stands for our self-helping free
at any time.

Thursday we visited the National Cemetery where Supt. Captain Cook gave us an interesting sketch of the same. Captain Cook is a prisoner for twenty-two months at the famous Libby prison at Richmond, Va. was wounded a number of times and is still sheltering two Confederate bullets in his body. In the afternoon we were taken over the field of battle our guide telling us of how the forces on either side had hunted for position and of the progress during the bloodiest one-day fight in the War of the Rebellion. The "Bloody Lane," Antietam creek, Dunker church, the cornfield and other points were visited. The operations of the Old Twentieth in that historic battle extended that day in the vicinity of "Bloody Lane." Dunker church and the cornfield. Major Tanner was exceedingly interested in this part of the battlefield, finding the lay of the country just as he had it pictured in his mind.

We returned in time to arrange for supper, which consisted of chicken,
mashed potatoes, sweets, lima beans,
corn conserve, relishes, soda biscuit, bread, fruit and what-not, three kinds of cake, ice cream—a menu that justice was done to.

On Friday, the 17th, at 10 a. m.
we formed in line headed by the band, and marched to the monument.
A grand stand had been erected for the use of the state officials, distinguished guests and the executive committee and others, while more than 200 old vets occupied camp chairs in close formation. Colonel Lewis R. Stegman, chairman of the State Monumental Committee, presided, and performed his duty in such a bright and cheerful manner that it made the sun seem to shine brighter on that September morn-

The program was long. A male quarter rendered several selections, their voices blending sweetly. The selections by the band revived the memory of the old boys to the days of the 60s.

General Miles was introduced and in responding paid a grand tribute to the American soldier and spoke most interestingly regarding the battle of Antietam and of military affairs. Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan was the next speaker and he kept us in a cheerful mood relating personal experiences, telling of the need of good discipline and morals of the men and laimed that the American soldier who inherited the spirit of the men who fought in the sixties, are the equal to any in existence. Gen. O'Ryan known for with the American soldier, he performed what was thought to be the impossible, he smashed the Hindenburg line over the sea, to the great astonishment of the Old World.

All is over. Our minds and hearts are filled with facts and experiences and we are in a hurry to get on our way. Our boys, our girls, our friends, what a delightful time we had on our trip and with it all the weather conditions were ideal.
Home again to Old Kingston—the Eden of the world to me.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, the brilliant young Badger State leader, has just been renominated for the second term in the Senate. Mr. Lenroot won his campaign on the issue of the justification of his own record in voting for the Esch-Cummings Railway Organization Law and denouncing the efforts of the red radical elements to promote the hair-brain Plunk Plan of federal ownership. Senator Lenroot, during his long service in the House of Representatives, was a leader of the progressive element. His election to the speakership in the 65th Congress was carried in advance of his nomination to the Senate in the spring of 1912, when he succeeded the late Honorable Paul Hastings, Democrat.

City division showed an increase of 19% per cent in summer over the winter months, and the Colonial division an increase of 125 per cent. Some time ago, said Superintendent TeBow, Alderman Kelly had come to him and said the people in his district wanted the Kingston City line run through to Kingston Point, and the Colonial line to stop at the Rhinebank ferry. He had told Mr. Kelly he could take up the matter with the Public Service Commission, but that it would add two cars to the Kingston City division and save only one car on the Colonial line. Such a plan, said Mr. TeBow, ought to require only six cars, but in reality it would require seven. An objection to proposed plans, except that submitted by the railroad company, he said, was that it would involve the cost of removing four or five more switches than was provided for by the railroad company's plan, and that the cost of such removal was about $3,000 per switch.

Superintendent TeBow submitted several diagrams showing by means of lines and squares the operation of the system with loops through Cedar street and Clinton avenue, and also by way of Delaware and Hasbrouck avenues, which, he pointed out, would not give the prompt service now enjoyed.

To Corporation Counsel Brinrier, Mr. TeBow said the entire Colonial track and roadbed were in good condition practically throughout their entire length. Hasbrouck Park, he said, which is a city park, is half a mile from the Colonial line at Hasbrouck and Delaware avenues. The railroad company owns Kingston Point Park.

To Mayor Canfield, he said he was not aware that there was an average daily attendance of more than a thousand people at Hasbrouck Park. The Mardi Gras at Kingston Point on the Saturday following the police count of passengers on the Colonial line had not drawn much of a crowd. To be fair, he believed the police count for the first and second days it was made should have been brought down to the average day of the year.

To Chairman Hill's questions, Superintendent TeBow said that the count for those two days would be fair for August days.

Increased Fare to Solve Problems.

In answer to questions by Mr. Merritt, who represented the Taxpayers' Association, Mr. TeBow said the present population of Kingston warranted a five minute schedule on the Kingston City division. If the road were to be left in its present condition, an increased fare would be feasible to solve financial problems, but it would not be constructive. To keep present facilities in operation would probably be better for the people at an increased fare than abandonment of the present route. It was an advantage to have a trolley road near factories. The road was seeking by abandonment and consequent cutting down of operating costs to better itself financially. The railroad company's idea was to avoid a higher rate but give better service, which it believed it could do only by abandoning part of the Colonial line. If the fare should be increased and Kingston should grow, the railroad company would still have the load of the Colonial line and the plan would relieve conditions only for a time. The plan did not include an increase of rolling stock of the Kingston City line by junking the Colonial line. While higher fare would eliminate losses now being sustained, the same trouble would crop up later. An increase of one cent in fare would eliminate loss on paper.

To questions by Chairman Hill, Mr. TeBow said that he assumed the increased fare that had been planned would compensate the road for losses sustained by passengers who would walk rather than ride. The plan he had submitted would give a certain percentage of the people better facilities even though it would take away from a certain percentage of the people all the facilities they now enjoyed.

Chairman Hill, after getting Mr. TeBow to describe the general layout of Kingston, with its three distinct business centers, said that Kingston geographically presented an unusual situation.

Mr. TeBow's testimony closed the case.

Motion to Dismiss Application.

Mayor Canfield moved to dismiss the application on the grounds that the company had failed to prove facts sufficient to entitle it to the legal or equitable relief sought; that the city had granted the Colonial City Traction Company authority to construct and operate its railway within the city by ordinances which specifically set forth that the company shall operate its cars over the route set forth, which included the part of the streets sought to be abandoned, and that the company had accepted such franchise, which constitutes a binding contract with the city; that the number of passengers carried in 1919 by the railroad company was 3,247,307, which if carried at an increased fare of one cent would result in an increased revenue of $32,972.07; that the estimated saving under the company's plan of abandonment and consequent curtailment of expenses would amount to $28,944, or according to the company's estimate would amount to $24,273.

Chairman Hill Talks Business.

After Mayor Canfield had made his motion, Chairman Hill asked him whether it was his contention that the people would rather pay an increased fare, if necessary, than to have the line discontinued. Mayor Canfield replied that in his opinion they would. Mr. Merritt also said that in his opinion the people would pay the extra one cent rather than have the line abandoned.

Mr. Decker, on behalf of the railroad company, said that if there was any real opposition to abandonment, there would have been some sort of popular demonstration at either or both of the hearings which had been held. Mayor Canfield, he said, merely appeared for the city as a lawyer.

Chairman Hill, in reply to Mr. Decker, said that he had no desire to put the matter entirely up to Mayor Canfield, but he was asking his opinion as mayor, and he believed that the people understood thoroughly that both the mayor and corporation counsel were representing them in this proceeding. It was his experience that there were not generally any public meetings in these matters but the people left such matters to their regular officials.

Mr. Decker replied that the company was not making an entirely selfish move in applying for permission to abandon part of the Colonial line, but it desired to be in a position to give the people of the community a real good and effective service.

It was a pretty serious matter, said Chairman Hill, to abandon tracks which had been in operation as long as these tracks had been without the soundest kind of reasons, and where there was an alternative. It should be given the utmost consideration. It was not often that a situation arose where the people came forward and said in effect: "We will grant you this extra money rather than lose the railroad."

Mr. Chipp, in answer to Chairman Hill, said that the chairman had suggested, with an implication that the railroad ought to confirm it, that the railroad ought to abandon the proposed line. If the commission had power to grant an increased fare as an alternative, that was one matter, but if the company had to begin a new proceeding, it did not want to be confronted by the same gentleman who might appear in opposition to such application.

"The history of your other application does not bear that out," said Chairman Hill. "I am not suggesting that you accept this proposition. I suggest it as a reason that your application may be denied. This application has got to be determined on its own merits. The alternative is part of the merits. I find it a good thing to be perfectly frank. We haven't any rate application here as an alternative. It is set forth in the answer, and it seems to me the railroad is ungracious not to want to consider the alternative in view of the history of the former proceeding. This is the first time I have seen any community come forward and take this position with such unanimity. The suggestion does not come from the mayor; I merely asked him what he thought, and he has told me his opinion in the matter."

"I answered," said Mayor Canfield, "that the alternative would be preferable to abandonment, but only provided that your honor finds they are entitled to relief."

The matter of King birds was discussed and was held open.

PLATTEKILL.

Plattekill, Sept. 27.—A business meeting of the Epworth League was held Tuesday evening.

Mrs. R. Harris, who has been confined to her bed for a long time due to a fall, went to East Orange, N. J., Friday, where she will take temporary treatment. Everyone in the community hopes that the method of treatment will prove satisfactory.

J. P. Deane who sold his farm and will to C. Hart of Canada has bought the Elm property and moved there.

Mrs. H. Carpenter has sold her farm to people from Brookhaven and will take possession soon.

Mrs. Fred Palmer and daughter, Mary, Helen and Kathryn, were visitors in New York last week.

The next meeting of the League of Women will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Wood at Laytondale, Tuesday October 4.

FABLES OF OUR CITY.

Once upon a time there was a man in Kingston who said, "The Chamber of Commerce is no good because it has not brought any industries here lately."

And the Chamber of Commerce went out and got three big industries for Kingston.

And so the man who said the Chamber wasn't any good was very much disturbed because he had lost his pet excuse for not working for Kingston through the Chamber of Commerce.

He said now my pet excuse is lost. I shall have to sit up nights and think of some brand new excuse.

But his neighbors said: "It is a closed season for excuses. Why not get busy and join the Chamber of Commerce and help it do all the things which need to be done?"

So he took his neighbor's advice and that makes it unanimous for Kingston and the Chamber of Commerce.

WILSON'S FIRST STATEMENT FOR COX AN ANSWER TO QUERY ON IRELAND

Calls Attention to His Answers of Last Year Saying That U. S., in League, Would Be Free to Act Independently in Cases Such as That of Ireland's Demands.

By Telegram to The Freeman

Washington Sept. 28.—President Wilson today took his first active step in the campaign to aid Governor Cox by issuing a statement in the league of nations as affecting the Irish question.

The statement issued through Secretary Tumulty at the direction of the president took the form of an answer to a letter from E. M. Swartz of Los Angeles who wrote asking what could be done about the Irish situation.

"It seems to me," says the statement, "that the peace and freedom of the world is a forum to which all peoples can bring other matters which are likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

Swartz wrote to President Wilson as follows:

"The forces supporting the public ticket are so strong that if we ratify the league of nations we would be bound to support England in holding Ireland under subjection."

"Is it not a fact and a statement of the high contracting parties that at the time the league was drawn and approved that article ten was to prohibit one nation from grabbing a territory of another nation? And also is it not true that when you said at the time that the league was a continuation of public confidence which seems to exist, he said:

"All that is needed is to prove that an adequate remedy is a continuation of public confidence which seems to exist, he said."

"E. M. SWARTZ," Secretary Tumulty by direction of President Wilson answering the letter said:

"I beg to say that the identical questions contained in your letter with reference to article ten and the right of self determination found in the league of nations covenant were placed before the president while he was on his western trip last year and fully answered by him. The president asks me to call your attention to the following questions and answers given by him to the press at that time, which I think satisfactorily answer your inquiries. The questions and answers are as follows:

"Q.—Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the league in putting down a rebellion of its subjects of conquered peoples?"

"A.—It does not."

"Q.—Under the covenant does this nation independently recognize a government whose people seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the league?"

"A.—The independent action of the government of the United States in matters of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the league of nations."

"Q.—Under the covenant are those subject nations or people, only that are mentioned in the peace treaty entitled to the right of self determination or does the league possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or peoples?"

"A.—It was not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, but in the covenant of the league it has set up in article eleven a forum to which all claims of self determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world or the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends can be brought."

"Q.—Why was the case of Ireland not heard at the peace conference? And what is your opinion on the subject of self determination of Ireland?"

"A.—The case of Ireland was not heard at the peace conference because the conference had no jurisdiction over any questions of that sort."

which did not affect territory which belonged to the defeated empires. My position on the subject of self determination for Ireland is expressed in article eleven of the covenant in which I may say I was particularly interested because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

"I sincerely hope that the above questions and answers satisfactorily meet your inquiries."

(Signed) "JOSEPH P. TUMULTY," Secretary to the President."

ASSIGNEE DOYLE GIVES ACCOUNTING

Winding Up Affairs of Former Ellenville Brewery—Account Shows $6,000 to be Distributed.

A hearing was had before Judge Joseph M. Fowler at county court chambers this morning in the matter of the general assignment of John N. Kuhlmann, Joseph B. Kuhlmann and Frederick L. Kuhlmann to William S. Doyle for the benefit of creditors. The account of the assignee was filed some time ago and the matter was adjourned until today to allow counsel to examine the account.

John N. Kuhlmann was examined at considerable length in regard to various claims. The account of the assignee shows that he has paid out $112,81 and there is a cash balance on hand of $7,101.80. The total claims presented to and allowed by the assignee amount to $25,000. Rejected claims amount to $1,779.50 and claims shown on the inventory but not presented by creditors amount to $1,205.11.

The assignee for a number of years conducted a brewery at Ellenville, the business having been established by their father, the late John Kuhlmann under the name of the John Kuhlmann Brewing Company. The brewery property was encumbered by a mortgage of about $18,000 and was sold by the assignee subject to that mortgage, taxes and a down interest of Mr. Kuhlmann's widow. Mr. Kuhlmann said that he and his two brothers conducted the business as copartners. It was stated by counsel for one of the creditors that in 1896 they had formed a corporation and subsequently the brewery property was transferred to the corporation. The assignee sold the property at auction and later it was transferred to Homer Kuhlmann, who conducts a beverage manufacturing business there. Other real estate sold by the assignee, which was encumbered by mortgages, was situated at Ellenville and at Waverling.

At the close of Mr. Kuhlmann's testimony the matter was adjourned for further hearing; this afternoon John R. DeVany appeared for the assignee, Cleon B. Murray appeared for the assignors, with Frank W. Brooks, of counsel; Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the executors of the Heidrich estate, a creditor; and H. Westlake Coons appeared for the First National Bank of Ellenville and other creditors.

SENATE HOUSE GIFTS.
Governor Smith Praised Historical Collection.

Among the recent distinguished guests at the Senate House was Governor Smith, during his visit to Kingston for the laying of the cornerstone of the bridge. Gov. Smith was most complimentary in his comments regarding the fine historical collection at the Senate House. The Senate House has also been recently enriched by the gift of a very handsome mahogany grandfather's clock presented by Mrs. Chubbourn of Stone Ridge. The clock bears the date 1755. Another highly prized gift is that of an old fashioned two branch gill and black chandelier presented by the children of the late Charles Reynolds. Miss Westbrook in charge of the Senate House has places for two other set chandeliers.

Dr. Bell comes very highly recommended as a particularly forceful speaker. The address follows a short business meeting and is open to the public.

AT THE THEATRES.
Comedy At Keneey's—"Carmen of the North" At Auditorium.
One of the funniest comedies of the year was shown at Keneey's last night and another chance will be had to see it tonight. "What's Your Husband Doing" is all about jealous wives and husbands, and it's a solid laugh from first to last. The stars are Douglas MacLean and Doris May the two stars who made such a tremendous hit in "Twenty-three and a Half Hours Leave" tomorrow Tom Moore in "Toby's Bow."

Anna Bos in "Carmen of the North" at the Auditorium tonight offers a new version of the ever popular novel of "Carmen" of cigarette fame. This new portrayal makes this famous story live again on the screen. A two part Western action drama starring Neal Hart is also programmed, entitled "A Knight of the Westland." This story gives the hero of the plains many opportunities to show the lovers of the "wild and woolly" what the boys of '49 had to do to keep from giving with their boots on Tomorrow Robert Warwick in "The Man Who Forgot."

"My Lady Friends" is the latest of comedies to bid for public favor. It will be seen at the Kingston Opera House next Thursday matinee and night and will have for its leading man Jack Norworth, last seen in musical comedy. The story deals with a young business man, who has made a lot of money in a short space of time, and who wishes to have a good time with it and also to help him in this, so he takes under his protection three young and charming ladies, on whom he spends money lavishly, but with no selfish motive in sight. Of course, they fall in love with him, and in trying to get himself out of hot water, he makes the complications that follow, fun, tears, supreme, but everything eventually turns out alright, and he finally realizes that his little wife is the best after all.

BROOKLYN HAS BIG ADVANTAGE

With National League Pennant Clashed the Team Can Beat White American League in Hittery Fighting Out Championship—Cleveland Has Best Chance.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 23.—With the National League pennant waving over Brooklyn, the interest of fandom centered today on the hot fight between the White Sox and Indians in the Junior major league.

The rival American League teams are hanging on like bulldogs. Both won their Monday games in decisive fashion and the Indians managed to hold the stout half game lead that bridges the gap between first and second places.

Today Tris Speaker's tribe will continue their series in St. Louis, where two more games are to be played, but the White Sox will be idle until Friday when they are scheduled to open a three game series with the Browns.

Meanwhile the Indians will take on Detroit in four games. Chicago's lone hope now rests in two defeats for the Indians in their remaining six games and though the Forest Citys are going great guns, such a happening is possible before they get away from St. Louis—though not probable.

While the American Leaguers are fighting it out, the Brooklyn Dodgers will point themselves for the world's series. Uncle Wilbert Robinson now has a chance to give his star twirlers a much needed rest and in this respect he enjoys a distinct advantage over whichever American League team wins the pennant.

Granting that pitching will have much to do with deciding the issue in the coming series, it is apparent that the Dodgers enjoy an edge at this stage, for Brooklyn's pitching staff is stronger as a whole than the staffs of either the Indians or White Sox.

The victory of the Dodgers in this year's campaign was honestly earned and well deserved. Wilbert Robinson got the last ounce of baseball out of every member of the team and the fact that the newly crowned champions won a majority of games throughout the season from every other team but the Cincinnati Reds, proves that they played consistently. A resume of the games played shows that the Dodgers won a majority of games in every month of the race with the exception of June, when they got into a slump. The fact that the Dodgers must invade an American League city for the first three world's series games is not looked upon as a handicap, for Brooklyn has been on the road all year.

100 NEW JERSEY AUTOISTS COMING

Reservations have been obtained by the Hudson County Auto Club of Jersey City, N. J., for rooms and entertainment at the Eagle Hotel from Saturday afternoon until Sunday afternoon. The auto club has a fall outing annually early in October, and this year will come to Kingston where they will spend the night at the Eagle Hotel and on Sunday make a tour into the Catskills and around the Ashokan dam. There will be 100 in the party at least, many of the club members being accompanied by their wives. On Saturday night after supper the large dining room at the hotel will be converted into a spacious ball room which will be decorated for the occasion in a lavish manner and the autoists and their wives will hold a dance. The members of the club are all representative citizens of Jersey City and look forward to these annual outings with pleasurable anticipation.

Considers Matters Affecting Ex-Servicemen's Welfare—Colonels Only Mentioned for National Commander—Thresh Out Political Policy Today.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cleveland, O., Sept. 23.—Getting right down to hard work after the ceremonies and parade of the opening day, the second annual session of the American Legion here today is expected to clearly define the attitude of the organization proposals looking to the proper care for injured and disabled men, the bonus proposals and other matters of special interest to ex-service men.

Of even greater interest generally, an official definition of the legion's non-partisan attitude is expected some time during the day. This is expected to clear up the troublesome question of how far local posts may go in matters regarded as political. With the refusal of Colonel Milton J. Forman of Chicago to allow his name to be used as a candidate for national commander, and the lining up of the Illinois delegation behind Colonel F. W. Galbraith of Cincinnati, the latter leaped into the leadership in the race for chief honors, closely followed by Colonel Sanford Mac Nider of Mason City, Ia., Colonel F. J. Herbert of Worcester has strong backing from New England and scattering support from other sections.

It is still a race between colonels. No buck private's names have been mentioned.

Opposition to both Mac Nider and Herbert developed in the lobbies last night. The Iowa is opposed because of his youth, while Herbert is said to have opposed Governor Calvin Coolidge's stand on the Boston police strike.

SAW ALBANY PLAY

And K. H. S. Team Will Take Advantage of Defects.

The Garret and Gray football team went through a light practice Monday at Ridgefield park. Signal practice and tackling were staged. Coach Boyson gave them a short talk on the mistakes made in Saturday's game with the Edison Drafting school and told them how they could be avoided in the future.

The team will go to Kingston Saturday afternoon where they will meet the representative high school team of that city. The week after they will meet the Kingstonians on the Ridgefield gridiron. Coach Boyson is drilling his team mostly in end running and line blocking which is the weak point of the team. The Kingstonians suffered a double defeat at the hands of the Garret and Gray last season and they intend to turn the tables this year. Several members of the Kingston squad were present at Saturday's game and noted the defects in which the Kingston team will be drilled to handle this week to prepare for the game—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

On the Police Matter.

It was reported to the police Monday evening that strike agitators from New York city were in the city and that they were making an attempt to incite the employees of the factory at No. 26 Broadway to strike. The police investigated and found conditions peaceful.

Monday morning about 1:20 Clerk Luke Steeler of No. 447 Washington avenue ran his car into the rear of an automobile from the Schreyer garage on Railroad avenue. The damage was slight.

KINGSTON COPS BALL CHAMPIONS

Saturday the Newburgh police force baseball team defeated the Poughkeepsie cops by a score of 35 to 9, at Newburgh. Next Saturday Newburgh cops will play the Bridge City cops in Newburgh a return game. Newburgh was badly defeated in Kingston this summer by the local police force, who won to the tune of 21 to 4. It is evident that as Kingston defeated Newburgh and Newburgh walloped Poughkeepsie that the Kingston cops are the baseball champions of the police departments of the Hudson river valley towns.
